

Antwerp,

To whom it may concern:

With the introduction of Cable Water Ski Parks, water skiing and wakeboarding became very affordable to a large majority of people. It is easy to learn and for everyone from 7 to 77 years old; the only requirement is to know how to swim. There are over 140 Cable Water Ski Parks all over the world, and many more are on the drawing board in quite a few countries. These Cable Parks are environmentally friendly and offer inexpensive way of water skiing.

Many people can remember that expansion of winter skiing has started with installation of many snow ski lifts worldwide. We are sure that water skiing will experience similar expansion with the increase of the number of Cable Water Ski Parks. More than a thousand people learn how to water ski and wakeboard on each Cable Park every year.

Competitions of any level are more frequent in cable water ski and wakeboard sports. The International Olympic Comity has recognized these sports and included them in a pre-Olympic group of sports.

There is synergy between sport and business. Developing the number of cables parks will increase the number of people practicing this sport and, of course, all the business around this sport.

AquaCom is an international company that offers complete solutions for Cable Parks. AquaCom has a sound record in this business and we, the International Water Ski Federation would like to support and encourage its efforts to develop worldwide new Cable Parks. Development of new Cable Parks will positively impact development of water ski and wakeboard sports.
